Stephanie O' Sullivan Principal Deputy Director of National Intelligence Office of the Director of National Intelligence

"In my experience, changing organizational culture is the most challenging aspect of leadership."

Principal Deputy Director of National Intelligence Stephanie O' Sullivan is the top deputy to DNI James Clapper. She said her role, "similar to a chief operations officer," means that there's no telling from hour to hour what her work will entail. "My job is unpredictable ... every day is different; you just don't know when you walk in every morning what will be next," she said.
